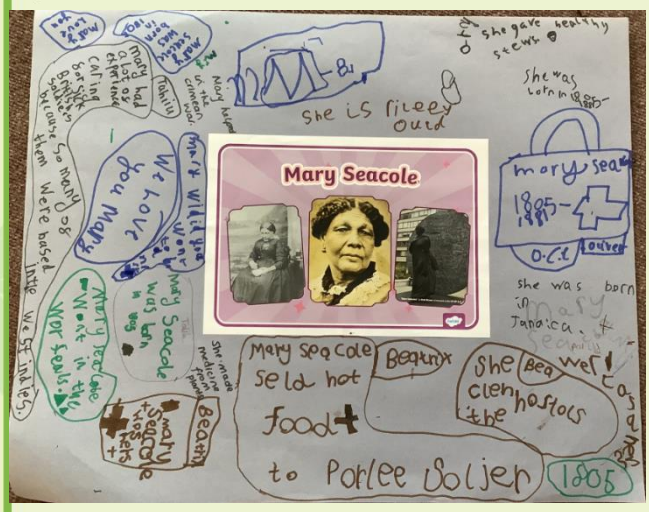
This week

W/C Monday 8th June 2026



It has been another busy week at Netley! We have been problem solving in maths this week, applying our learning to different challenges. In literacy we have planned and written short stories based on The Enormous Crocodile. The children were given the choice to write up and design a front cover for their stories which will be coming home today. In DT we tried different dips as research before we design our own dips. The children (most of them!) enjoyed trying hummus, guacamole and salsa! In science we looked at different life cycles for animals in the ocean and in history we completed research about Florence Nightingale and Mary Seacole. Have a great weekend!
