

They have been getting to know new class members, follow new routines and explore different classroom environments.

We have been using the 'big bright feelings' series of books by Tom Percival to help us think about our emotions when we are faced with different problems. We have also explored different words we can use to describe these different feelings and emotions.

We have been practising our counting skills, with dominoes, counters and playing cards, to enjoy a variety of games. We have also worked in partners to complete some ordering and missing number games.

In the quiet area, we have enjoyed reading a selection of 'feeling' themed books and listening to the story cards on the Yoto player.
